

SUBAH AHMED

Texas Region | Alpha Zeta Eta | Dallas College - North Lake Campus

The first 23 years of my life were spent in Dhaka, Bangladesh. I'm the firstborn & first in my family to study abroad and live independently as an international student, currently pursuing an Associate of Science degree with the goal to become a Software Engineer.

Leadership didn't start for me in college. It started in childhood, watching both my parents run businesses. And when you're 15 and get tagged along to meetings long enough, something funny happens – you don't just observe. My mother didn't let me sit quietly for long. After the first few meetings, I was already participating, contributing, and learning how real decisions were made.

I didn't qualify for PTK the first time I heard about it but that didn't stop me. I learned about PTK during orientation, and when someone said, "It's not just an honor society, it's a place to be there for each other," that line stayed with me. So even as a provisional member, I showed up early, stayed late, volunteered often, and got involved wherever I could. Through that journey, PTK became my home away from home, and today,

I lead my chapter as president with deep gratitude for the community that believed in me. Fun fact: I practically live on campus between PTK, volunteering, leadership roles, and coding, Dallas College became my second home.
